Tempe News NotesMAIL STOLEN FROM DEPOT

Robbery of Over a Week Ago Brought to Light When Mail Pouch Found Hidden in Brush — Contents Tampered With.

That several United States mail pouches were stolen from the Arizona Eastern depot at Tempe a week ago Tuesday night was positively ascertained yesterday with the finding of one of the missing pouches, open and less all of the mail matter that it should have contained. Two other pouches, and possibly a third, one of them carrying the first class mail from the east, are still missing and the best efforts of the police so far have failed in even getting a clue to the case.

At the time of the robbery the attention of the local authorities but by placing the blame at various other points it was understood that the pouches had been put on the wrong train and would eventually return to their Tempe destination all right. The finding of the empty pouch has dispelled that idea, however, and now there is little doubt that all of the sacks were stolen.

One pouch from Phoenix carrying newspaper matter, a second lock-pouch carrying the letters and other first class matter from the east, and the other two pouches from that direction carrying second class matter are supposed to be missing.

The mail came in together on the 8:12 train in the evening from Maricopa and as is the rule, it was thrown into the baggage room to await its removal to the post office the next morning. Nothing was molested about the depot during the night, not the least sign was apparent that a robbery had been committed and because of that the depot men were loath to believe that the mail had been stolen.

The belief is that somebody with a key got into the depot during the night or else the pouches were taken from the baggage room during the early evening while the Western Union operator the only employee on hand at that time of night, was at work in the office. The latter theory seems the more likely.

The empty pouch located yesterday was found within a hundred yards of the depot hidden in some brush. The surrounding ground was some over thoroughly and even into the river bed the search was continued but no further clues were to be found.

This makes the second time the Arizona Eastern depot has been robbed of mail matter within the last few years. Matter of probably greater value was removed the time before and the culprits were never apprehended nor the missing mail recovered. Just what is contained in the missing pouches this time or what their value is, has not been determined.

JOHNSON STANDS THREE OFF

Because he was establishing a water-wheel in one of the laterals owned by the Tempe Canal company, and because he drew a gun on three officials of that company, when told to remove the apparatus, Julius Johnson, near Lehi, has been called into court to answer a charge of assault. He was up for preliminary hearing night before last and was released on a three hundred dollar bond.

Johnson was constructing some sort of a power machine in the Tempe canal which was not in accordance with the company rulings. Superintendent L. D. Cook, C. G. Jones, a director, and Ludwig Sedig, visited Johnson, concerning the proposition and when they offered to remove the apparatus from the canal for him,

DISPOSAL PLANT OPERATING

The disposal plant to Tempe's sewer system is now in daily operation and so far its work has proven all that was expected. The sewerage passes from the huge retaining tank into the two smaller tanks containing the electrical purifying apparatus and here it is subjected to a process of purification that cleanses it to almost one hundred percent. The electricity is generated by means of a small gasoline engine and this together with the daily wage of the operator is the only expense attached to the plant. It is estimated that the purifying apparatus will be in operation from two to three hours a day, which will entail an expense of no more than fifteen or twenty dollars each month.

POSTAL AUTHORITIES NAIL BIG AUTO FRAUD

Carnegie Engineering Corporation Shown to Be Without Solid Foundation

With the issuance of a fraud order against the "Carnegie Engineering Corporation," of New York City, a unique scheme of swindling automobile agencies on a large scale by the name of the famous steel magnate is uncovered.

The order is also directed against "Chauncey Holt, Sales Manager." In circular letters to the agencies, Holt gave the impression the Carnegie Steel company had entered the automobile field and was about to put on the market a popular-priced car named after Andrew Carnegie which would "meet every requirement of design, appearance, speed, strength and economy of operation." Dealers thus solicited last spring and summer were asked to advance a deposit of $50 upon each car ordered for September delivery.

Numerous agencies, anxious to handle "The Classiest Car in America," $595, P. O. R., Pittsburgh, placed orders.

"Among other evidence," says a memorandum by the solicitor for the postoffice department, under which the fraud order is based, "there have been submitted complaints of eight dealers who, desiring to become agents for the sale of these cars, made remittances to these parties of sums of money ranging in amount from $250 to $1250, involving an aggregate of $2400, for which they received nothing. In reply to an inquiry addressed to these dealers by the inspector who investigated this scheme, each of said dealers asserted that he was deceived by the asserted representations into believing that he was dealing with the Carnegie Steel corporation, with which the game Carnegie has become identified, or with a subsidiary owned by said corporation.

"The Carnegie Engineering Corporation is incorporated for $1,000,000. Not a single share of the capital stock has been subscribed for and not a single dollar has been paid in. It has no money with which to purchase the material or facilities for the construction of automobiles, and is, and always has been, without means to operate the business.

"The respondents admit that they are neither the great Carnegie company nor a subsidiary thereof and that they are in no way connected therewith. The extensive organization of which they speak does not exist. They have only two engineers in their employ, whose qualifications as such are extremely doubtful. Their guarantee is worthless because they never furnish the cars. Their more extensive factory facilities and vast resources than can be found in any one automobile plant in the world," the evidence shows do not in fact exist.
